He's Coming Home Today

Breathlessly waiting for the moment he'll turn the corner of the street, Mr. and Mrs. Gasper Kvetkas and their daughter, Bertha, 18, wait at the gate of their home on Green st., Cambridge, for the family's soldier son, T5 Peter Flowers, who has been discharged from the Army today after serving three years in the South Pacific. A surprise arranged by the Boston American changed the reunion scene. (See story on Page 3.)

Greatest Battle On in Okinawa

Allied offensives crunched ahead today on the tightly guarded ridges of Okinawa and the hills of interior China as a meeting of generals in Chungking indicated imminent launchings of sweeping campaigns to drive the Japanese from central China and southeast Asia.

The first war item to be reconsigned from the European theater to the Pacific—whole blood—arrived in Guam as four Yank divisions on Okinawa plunged into the biggest American land offensive of the Pacific war.

Chinese reported they had recaptured two cities, Tungkow and Taowaping, in the continuing rout of an unsuccessful Jap drive toward the U. S. Chihkiang air base, 250 miles southeast of Chungking. In three other battles northeast of the Chinese capital, 9300 Japanese were reported killed or wounded, huge quantities of war material seized and strategic heights taken.

In Chungking Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek conferred with Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, deputy supreme commander of the Southeast Asia-China theaters, and Maj. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer, American commander in China, presumably over co-ordinating promised major offensives in China and conquest of Thailand and Singapore.

In a move to speed the end of the southern Philippines campaign, the 40th Division landed on northern Mindanao, where Gen. MacArthur said Nipponese garrison have already been so badly cut up by two other U. S. divisions and guerrillas that they are "incapable of serious resistance."

The gruelling battle for Okinawa, 325 miles south of Japan, rose to a new pitch yesterday involving repeated bayonet charges by both Americans and Japanese, when four divisions launched a general offensive behind heavy naval, air and land artillery bombardment.

Tank-supported Yanks — perhaps 30,000 of them—killed off Japs making night - long attacks and infiltrations and then launched their own attack along the four-mile front across the island yesterday morning. They gained from 200 to 800 yards. Behind every advance flamethrowers and flaming gasoline burned bypassed Japs out of holes.

Sixth Division Marines were less than a mile from Naha, capital, port and major objective on Okinawa. First Division Marines and 77th Infantrymen gained high ridges looking down on either side of Shuri fortress in the center. The 96th, apparently replacing the battle-weary Seventh Infantry on the east, kept pace.

Mounting U. S. naval casualties both at sea and on land were indicated in the Okinawa offensive. Heavy Jap air attacks, pressed despite the loss of 40 planes, damaged three light U. S. naval units. Including personnel losses on these vessels, Adm. Nimitz announced 6853 naval casualties have been suffered in Okinawa operations. They include 1283 killed, 2072 missing and 3498 wounded.

Himmler Held, Paris Reports

NEW YORK, May 12—CBS reported from Paris today Heinrich Himmler "is now reported to be in our hands."

"Himmler is understood to have been held by Adm. Doenitz in the Flensburg area under house arrest, and Doenitz is believed to have turned him over to British forces in that area," the broadcast said.

Reds Hammer Fleeing Nazis

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—Soviet armored forces slashed today at Nazi troops offering bitter resistance in Czechoslovakia as they attempted to flee westward through a rapidly narrowing corridor toward the American lines.

Other Russian troops had forced the surrender of the major portion of diehard enemy units in northern Austria, and had effected three new junctures with the Americans in the holdout area.

Inside Berlin the Russians were meeting the same kind of futile but savage resistance. Scores of fires were being set nightly in the shattered capital as Soviet soldiers extricated the bodies of hundreds of civilians from subways flooded in last-act Nazi terrorism.

The Soviet high command announced that the Russians had seized 560,000 prisoners along the former Eastern Front Wednesday through Friday, including 45 German generals.

Linkup with the Americans in Czechoslovakia was accomplished by Marshal Konev's First Ukrainian Army nine miles east of Pilsen, and by Marshal Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian Army below Prague.

Goering Welcome Angers Britons

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—The News Chronicle said today reports of the reception Hermann Goering received on his surrender to the U. S. Seventh Army had angered the British people.

The editorial said the British particularly were angered by a report that Brig. Gen. Robert Stack of the U. S. 36th Division shook Goering's hand.

"Once and for all," said the editorial, Hermann Goering is an evil, cruel murderer to whom justice must be done. Because he is fat, he is not kind; because he laughs, he is not merciful; by his record he is a criminal."

Nazi PWs Stream To Real Red Jobs

MOSCOW, May 12 (AP)—Long lines of German prisoners moved toward the Soviet Union from every sector of the front today, headed for reception centers where they will be classified according to occupations.

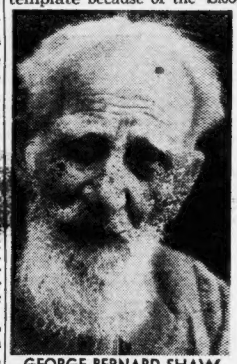
Ahead of the German prisoners, said Izvestia, "is no role of idle gentlemen, but the work of restoring ruined cities, villages and factories."

Shaw Hits V-E Day Cheering; 'Worst to Come in Europe'

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, May 12 (INS)—George Bernard Shaw did not celebrate V-E Day because he feels "there is no peace yet in Europe—the worst is yet to come."

In a characteristically Shavian interview, the playwright said the future of Europe to him seemed horrible to contemplate because of the bloodshed and destruction already wrought and the starvation and destitution to come.



GEORGE BERNARD SHAW

He was appalled that anyone should think he had joined what he termed the "flag-waving maniacs and idiots who think they have only to shout and a brave new world is born."

It was a different Shaw this correspondent interviewed. He appeared aged, obviously feeling the weight of his years and finding no consolation in the shape of things to come.

"I don't want to join the fools who are prattling away about this peace and who are celebrating as if everything is over, when in fact, perhaps the grimmest times lie ahead for all Europe," he said.

"How can serious people rejoice amid the devastation and destitution that is Europe today?" Shaw asked.

"There are millions of starving people, and these include little children.

"There are great cities in ruins, vast tracts of land are flooded, and millions are dead and maimed.

"How can we proclaim the burning of Berlin as a victory? You cannot destroy culture of centuries and consider it victory. In days gone by, wars ended with victory for one side. Now it results in destruction and destitution for all.

"War is now so utterly destructive it has reduced itself to an absurdity. It may take another 50 or 100 years for the people to find this out, and then war will have destroyed them.

"You can't stop war, and there can be no permanent peace while men still have fists.

"They will fight with their fists if they cannot have cannon, flying bombs and airplanes, so why talk about disarmament?"

Bay State PWs Ride Through Reich Ruins

By LOWELL BENNETT

International News Service Staff Correspondent, Recently Liberated From a German Prison Camp

PARIS, May 12 (INS)—A mad, 400-mile race in a two-cylinder car through Russian and Allied lines is an effective antidote to lethargy stored up during months in a prisoner of war camp.

With me were Lt. John G. Burke of West Roxbury, Mass., Flight Lt. Ian Bolton of Glasgow, Scotland, and S-Sgt. William R. Medill, Marlboro, Mass.

We had seized a car, packed in food and weapons, and drove toward Allied lines to deliver a report in Paris concerning Stalag Luft One at Barth, which was awaiting evacuation.

Today we are in Paris, the center of western European civilization and focal point of the continent's rejoicing over peace.

But there was no peace when we left the Baltic coast. Here is an attempt at creating a word panorama of scenes behind Soviet lines:

SS men here and there were committing suicide indirectly by attempting to obstruct the Russian occupation. These Germans were being wiped out by Russian patrols.

'Big 2' Meeting Talk Persists

LONDON, May 11 (AP)—The press secretary at No. 10 Downing st. declared today "there is nothing definite to say at this moment" regarding unofficial reports that President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill are planning a meeting.

A foreign office spokesman declined official comment on published reports that Stalin had written Churchill charging that the Yalta pledges had been broken, and that co-operation had become impossible.

When the subject was brought up at the White House, a press secretary, Eben Ayers, said President Truman's attention had been called to the reports this morning but had no comment to make.

"Is the story true?" the secretary was asked.

"I don't know," he replied.

By JAMES McENANEY

The first man in the United States to be discharged under the Army's new point system today was Peter Flowers, technician fifth grade, of Green st., Cambridge, who stepped out of the Army at Ft. Devens and into civilian life wearing a brand new uniform and a grin from here to breakfast. After him, so close that Flowers had a narrow escape in preserving his distinction as Civilian No. 1, came 62 other New Englanders, all as happy, all as newly uniformed and all proudly wearing the new discharge emblem, a spread eagle in a gold circle.

Flowers' most avid desire after 38 months in the Pacific? He wants to see a baseball game.

(The Boston American sports department arranged to take care of that request for Flowers and his family too. A box awaits them for tomorrow's Braves-Cubs game.)

Many of the discharged men were hurrying home to marry sweethearts. Flowers? "Emphatically no," he told questioners.

He is 28, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gasper J. Kvetkas, which, translated from the native tongue, means "flowers." In civilian life he was a bartender. He has one sister, Bertha, 18.

His discharge came about because he had 94 points to his credit under the Army's recently announced measuring-stick for determining to whom discharges are due. He fought with the 97th Field Artillery at Guadalcanal, New Caledonia and New Zealand.

In addition to the New Englanders discharged here, two others from this area became the first veterans to rate discharge at the AFF redistribution center in Atlantic City. They were M-Sgt. Henry G. Rieth of Minden st., Jamaica Plain, and S-Sgt. Rodney E. Benjamin of State st., Presque Isle, Me.

Both are fathers, both veterans of long service, Rieth with a total of 116 points based on: 55 months in the service, 39 months overseas, 12 points for his daughter and 10 points for two battle stars.

Benjamin's points totaled 133, representing 53 months in the service, 31 months overseas in England, Africa, Sicily, Corsica and Sardinia; five points for a Purple Heart; 30 points for six battle stars, and 12 points for his daughter.

It was expected that a total of approximately 80 men would be discharged at Devens before the

Family Greets No. 1 Vet

By ALICE BISSELL

"Gee, well gee whiz, well gee," said the soldier as he mopped his brow.

This was T5 "Pete" Flowers' profound statement as the Boston Evening American had the honor of reuniting the U. S. No. 1 dischargee with his family today.

When this newspaper learned that Pete was the first man in the United States to be discharged under the Army's new point system, an automobile was sent to Ft. Devens to bring him to its Winthrop sq. office.

Another car was rushed to the soldier's Green st., Cambridge, home. His mother, Veronica, was brushing up his civilian clothes which she had laid away tenderly in mothballs three years ago when he went into the service.

The newsmen whisked Pete into the Boston American City Room, where he certainly never expected to see his mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. Gasper J. Kvetkas (the surname means flowers in English) and his 18-year-old sister, Bertha. The whole group was then whisked off to the Parker House for a luncheon party.

"Three chickens I have at home for you tonight," said Mama Kvetkas.

"I'm going to give you a great big party," said sister Bertha.

And Papa Kvetkas just stood by with the tears in his eyes.

"Gee whiz!" said U. S. No. 1 man.

When he'd pulled himself together, he shouted, "FREE!" and pointed at his discharge insignia, the golden eagle.

"That means I was a soldier and I ain't no more. Oh, that beautiful little golden bird. My old tweed jacket will be a nice nest for him."

Pete said he had no immediate plans and that he wanted a rest after his 38 months of fighting in the South Pacific.

Then he looked down at his boots that had slogged through the mud of Guadalcanal and Heaven knows where.

"Where are my civilian shoes, Ma?" asked Flowers.

"We lost them and we have no shoe coupons," she said.

"No shoe coupons? No shoes? Can't get shoes? What a life!" said the new civilian.

'Hell on Wheels' Division to Berlin

WITH NINTH ARMY IN GERMANY, May 12 (AP)—Indications here today were that at least one American division will participate in a token occupation of Berlin—probably the crack Second Armored (Hell on Wheels) Division, veterans of Tunisia, Sicily and the European campaign.

Donahues to Blow Roof Off for Tony

If the Donahues of Maxwell st., Dorchester, blow the roof off their house tonight it will be only a demonstration of the power of sheer happiness.

The signal for the celebration will be when Anthony rings the doorbell. Cpl. Anthony J. Donahue, 29, with more than three years of fighting the Japs now a thing of the past, was one of the first men discharged at Ft. Devens under the Army's point system today.

Only Wednesday night he had telephoned his father, Arthur, and his mother, Bridget, that he had arrived at Devens for a 21-day furlough on the rotation plan.

"Home cooking, Ma" he shouted into the phone. "Get it ready! Your boy wants to eat a lot of it in the next 21 days."

Then the Army looked over his battle record and decided he had done his bit and more. It was a discharge instead of a furlough.

Happiness from another unexpected quarter came to the Donahue home Thursday. The doorbell was rung. In walked son John, 19, boatswain 2d class, USN, who hadn't notified them he had obtained a 31-day leave.

Catherine, 24, a WAC 19 months in the service, stationed in Texas, quickly got an emergency furlough to come home for the family celebration.

Mary, 22, a WAVE stationed in Rhode Island, 25 months in the Navy, obtained leave and hurried home.

They all were readying the house for a grand reunion later today. Helping was Francis, 27, who was given a medical discharge by the Army after serving 18 months, and Margaret, 30, and James, 32.

Only one of the Donahues will not be home. He is Daniel, 26, gunner's mate, 2c, serving on a battleship in the Pacific, with 16 engagements to his credit.

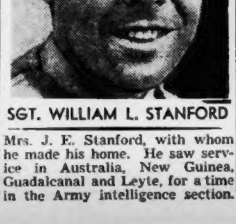
Mail Fiancee Hails Reading Vet and Civilian Bridal

When Sgt. William L. Stanford of Center ave., Reading, arrived home today as one of the first New Englanders to be discharged at Ft. Devens under the Army's Red, White and Blue point system, he found waiting for him the girl to whom he had become engaged by mail.

She is Miss Eva C. Anderson of David st., Brockton. She accepted his proposal Valentine's Day, 1944. Stanford had been sent here after three years and four months in the Pacific—for only a 30-day furlough. He and Miss Anderson were to celebrate it by being married next week.

"Now we'll celebrate his discharge by getting married next week," she said today. "I'm so happy to know that he has been discharged after that long stretch in the Pacific."

Before Stanford entered the service he was employed by a Boston woolen concern. He is 34 and a graduate of Boston University. His parents are Mr. and



SGT. WILLIAM L. STANFORD

Mrs. J. E. Stanford, with whom he made his home. He saw service in Australia, New Guinea, Guadalcanal and Leyte, for a time in the Army intelligence section.

Aussie Bride in His 96 Points

Sgt. Robert W. Taylor, son of Mrs. Teresa Sprague of Greenwood st., Newton, one of the first veterans released from Army Service at Ft. Devens today, has been a member of the Army Air Forces for three years and 10 months. He spent three years overseas in combat in New Guinea. Married to an Australian girl, who is still in her native land, Taylor phoned his mother on Friday night to tell her that he had 96 points.

First in War, Now First in Peace

Sgt. Frederick Brown, 29, of Thornton st., Wollaston, one of the first overseas veterans to be discharged to civilian life today at Ft. Devens, was also one of the first young men to be inducted into the armed forces from the Quincy area.

A mechanic in peacetime, he was drafted into the Army, Feb. 21, 1941.

His wife, the former Virginia Nightingale, of Quincy, has not seen him in all that time.

Congress For Control Of Seized Pacific Bases

By DAVID SENTNER
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, May 12—Congress is overwhelmingly in favor of the United States retaining control of captured Pacific Islands, a survey of both Houses disclosed today. The sentiment is so strong in the Senate for American military control of these bases that it is certain to affect the provisions of forthcoming treaties to be considered by the upper chamber.

Reflecting the general viewpoint of his colleagues, Sen. Butler, (R) of Nebraska, member of the Senate Committee on Territories and Insula Affairs, said:

"It is superfluous to ask the servicemen who are capturing these islands what should be done with them. They have made it clear that our nation should keep the islands if for no other reason than to be sure the blood of our finest men will never again be spilled in assaulting the islands to make secure our liberties in some possible future war."

Butler pointed out that if we had possessed adequate bases in the Pacific, we would have been able to attack the Japanese on their own mainland years ago.

He further suggested that the United States needed a complete circle of bases, both in the Atlantic and the Pacific, for national security.

In recognition of the growing opposition to any form of postwar international trusteeship for captured Pacific islands or other territory essential to American defense, Rep. James J. Delaney (D.) of New York, member of the House Territories Committee, has introduced a measure in the House for the setting up of an American Commonwealth of Nations.

Delaney's concurrent resolution is intended to allow complete self-government for territories acquired by the United States, either in the Atlantic or Pacific oceans, but provide for military installations in connection with national defense.

"The inhabitants of such territories would be entitled to rule themselves as they see fit," said Delaney, "but we could not allow them to be at the mercy of any nation or group of nations seeking expansion."

A Thought for Mother's Day

This morning I am sick with a wrenching nausea that stems, not from any physical cause, but from hearing (from "authentic sources," I suppose) that Hermann Goering has been lodged in a castle . . . that he is being served with wines and with fine foods!

IN THE NAME OF A JUST AND RIGHTEOUS GOD IN THE NAME OF THE MOTHERS OF THE WORLD IN THE NAME OF THEIR SONS WHO HAVE DIED IN THE NAME OF WOMEN DESECRATED, I SAY:

"Take him out of his castle; put him, until you're ready to hang him, in Dachau or in Buchenwald with the mangled, flogged, tortured, starved bodies of the victims of his bestial German war machine . . . of which he was second in command!"

Flier Rejoices As Bride Chooses Him

CHICAGO, May 12—Mrs. Helen Goad MacDowell of Portsmouth, O., pretty 23-year-old blonde who has two war husbands, was en route to her home today to seek an annulment of her second marriage—and hoped that both would understand.

At the same time a news dispatch from Calcutta stated that Lt. Harold W. Goad, liberated from a Jap prison camp with the fall of Rangoon, is a "very happy guy" to learn that the wife who remarried after he was reported killed in action plans legal action to sever the Enoch Arden marital tie.

On duty in the South Pacific is Ens. Robert A. MacDowell, hapless victim of the war triangle, who married Helen, believing her to be a widow, four months after she had received official notice of her flier husband's death.

Saying she had written both husbands and was awaiting their replies, she added:

"My first love will always be first. As long as I know Harold is alive I can never be happy with any other man. I hope that Mac will understand. I don't want to hurt him, but in a case of this kind someone must be hurt."

Lt. Goad is one of 60 liberated prisoners of war who expect to return home after they have received immunization treatment.

Before going overseas he gave his wife a letter to be opened in the event he died. In it he urged her to forget him, remarry and live a happy life.

Forecast Tighter Sugar Rationing

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Increasingly tighter sugar rationing, cutting industrial users to 50 per cent of their prewar supply, appeared in prospect for mid-year today.

Sugar allotments to householders for home canning will be reduced, too—and it will be a lot harder to get them from local rationing boards.

E. Boston Relief Contract Is Set

A seven-year fight by East Boston residents, led by City Councilor James S. Coffey, for restoration of 24-hour service at the East Boston Relief Station, ended successfully today when Mayor Kerrigan signed a contract for renovations.

The contract was awarded to M. Spinelli & Sons, Inc., low bidder of $20,899, the work to be completed in 75 calendar days. Woork will start Monday.

Kerrigan said the renovated building would be completely staffed and equipped to handle all emergencies in Charlestown and East Boston districts.

The hospital was closed seven years ago by Mayor Tobin and two years ago was re-opened on an eight-hour basis.

The boys in Solomon's were lower than an OPA ceiling, and you could have heard a pun drop.

"I know," sighed Slug Pfaffenzeller sadly. "I ain't slept fit for Goering since I heard the news. What nightmares! Last night I'm walking home as usual—I only had a few quickies, honest—when all of a sudden I hears a booming voice.

"I turns around. It's Brass Buttons. 'Pull over out of the curb,' he says, 'and leave us see your license.' Then I woke up in an awful sweat."

"Sweat? You was just perspiring politely," chimed in Bubbles Rappaport. "The other day I go to my state rep and get a copy of the bill to take home for some light reading. I take it to bed with me. There's a fifth on the night table and I'm just jugging along, content and rosy like."

Rappaport paused. He couldn't get his breath for a minute, but he got Pfaffenzeller's, and continued.

"In a dream the whole license thing was clear to me. The wars are all over. I see myself a traveling salesman. I arrive at South Station from Pawtucket, R. I., with my suitcase full of trinkets and I head for the bar across the street. 'Give me an up-and-down,' I says, signaling for a shot and a beer.

"'Your license?'" the barkeep says.

"'License?' I says to him, I says, 'I'm from Rhode Island. I came here through Providence.'

"'Never mind the religious stuff,' he tells me. 'Step in the back room.'

"In the back room I took off my coat and shirt and had a 1945 license tattoed on my right wrist. It was a picture of the Sacred Cod holding a quart in each gill. I gave the tattoo man $2 which he took, as he intoned: 'God Save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.'

"Suddenly, my dream switches. I'm home again in Dorchester and the missus is sending me for the weekend groceries. When I come home, I put away the foodstuff and decide to take a bath in the bathroom with the full length mirror. What a reflection! What colors!

"My forehead is deep purple, with reading. It says: 'Pickled beets, Permit No. 3689754, Exp. 6-1-45.' My cheeks are sunset red with an orange license and there's a border of yellow for grapefruit juice.

"Turning sideways, with difficulty, I can read 'Aroostook County' on my potato peeling sideburns, which are altogether too long. My ears are pierced with miniature rings of Golden Bantam cobs, very chic.

"I have a strawberry certificate on the end of my nose, prune juice permits trickle from my lips, both sides. Under each arm I am wearing tiny replicas of cakes of red soap. And nobody told me.

"Checking up to see if I had forgotten anything, I noticed my Adam's apple was bubble-bubble-bubbling up, and I marked off cleaning materials. There were tea bags here, coffee grounds there; my muscles rippled with gelatine permits; my chest was covered with my 1945 and 1946 cereal membership card—the kind that gives you energy.

"I closed my eyes, thoughtfully, then opened them quickly before the lids could pop up. There under my eyebrows were pink elephants. 'Thank God,' I said to myself, 'I did not forget the animal crackers.'"

TO WED STAR—Kaaren Verne, pretty Hollywood star, will become the bride of Peter Lorre, famed screen actor, at Las Vegas, Nev., on May 24 or 25, according to an announcement by the actress in Hollywood.

Pirate U-Boats Hunted by Navy

Washington naval authorities warned today that some German submarines may still be lurking off the Atlantic Coast despite the official Nazi surrender.

Shipping restrictions still remain in effect in view of the fact that only a handful of an estimated 200 to 300 U-boats, at sea at the time of the Nazi surrender, have given up by sailing into Allied ports or surfacing and flying flags of capitulation.

The Navy spokesman in Washington promised a quick trip to Davy Jones' locker for any German submarine found submerged, in view of the strict instructions broadcast to U-boats regarding surrender.

The Navy has considered the possibility that some fanatical Nazi U-boat crews may seek to evade surrender and either carry on a war of piracy or seek to make their way to join the last surviving Axis enemy, the Japanese.

At any rate, the spokesman declared, naval escorts would continue for all shipping in the Atlantic until all German U-boats had been surrendered or accounted for, and that other restrictions to protect coastwise ships and fishing craft would remain in force.

From London the Associated Press reported German subs surfacing in numbers in the North sea and Atlantic to await arrival of Allied shipping to which they could surrender.

A German naval commander prisoner was quoted as saying only Grand Adm. Doenitz knew how many subs Germany had in the Atlantic.

"We never knew because authorities did not want us to know how heavy our casualties were," he was quoted in the London Star.

The passage of eight members of a U-boat crew through Boston Thursday after their sub reportedly was sunk off Newfoundland still was clouded by a First Naval district disclaimer of all knowledge of the report.

First Service Command officials, however, admitted the Navy called headquarters of the provost marshal at Hotel Buckminster and asked if the eight prisoners could be housed there overnight.

It was learned the captured Germans had been flown here from Argentia, N. F., under a marine guard, remained at the Buckminster overnight and left for Washington yesterday.

Menuhin Given 90-Day Leave

LOS GATOS, Cal. (AP)—Yehudi Menuhin, 29, was notified by his draft board that he had passed his physical and is now classified 1-A, and the famed violinist said, "I am proud."

"I would have felt rather disillusioned about my physical fitness had I been classed otherwise," he explained. "I am anxious to help win this war in any capacity I can."

Menuhin said he had previously requested a 30-day leave to fill concert engagements in Europe, and that the draft board had given him 90 days.

High Court to Probe Halifax V-E Riots

HALIFAX, May 12 (AP)—The Supreme Court of Canada will investigate V-E day riots which swept through Halifax and other communities, causing two deaths and damage estimated at $5,000,000, and the government will consider "some appropriate steps" toward relieving the financial damage, Acting Prime Minister Ilsley said today.

No Red Points?

President Accepts Nelson's Resignation

WASHINGTON, May 12 (INS)—The White House announced today President Truman has accepted the resignation of Donald M. Nelson as personal representative of the President to China and other United Nations governments.

Edwin E. Locke, Jr., executive assistant to Nelson, has been designated to carry on the work of the economic mission in China established by Nelson.

Roxbury Man Held In Funeral Swindles

Charged with victimizing undertakers by cashing allegedly phoney checks after making funeral plans for non-existent corpses, Arthur Hayward, 32, formerly of Roxbury, was arrested today when a Cambridge funeral director became suspicious.

Police said Hayward was wanted by the FBI and authorities in Worcester and Fall River on charges in connection with the same scheme.

U. S. Zone Is Set Aside in Germany

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The Army and Navy Journal said today the American occupation zone in Germany would cover Bavaria, Wurtemberg and Thuringia with a supply corridor from British-controlled Bremen.

Mention of a supply corridor from Bremen to the American zone apparently referred to the known reluctance of the United States to use the overburdened transportation systems of France.

LEON BLUM IN PARIS

PARIS, May 12 (INS)—Leon Blum, former French Popular Front premier, was in Paris today after being held by the Germans more than two years.

MYSTERY DEATH VICTIM
Slain in Chicago Hotel Room

Bobby Sox Girl Quizzed in Hote Killing of Boy

CHICAGO, May 12 (INS)—A 15-year-old bobby sox girl wa questioned by police in a searc for information on the brut slaying of a youth who registere as Robert Levitus at the Steven Hotel, where his beaten an stabbed body was found.

The girl, Shirley Allen, hig school pupil, admitted she visite Levitus and his companion, wh registered as Harold Gordo Thursday afternoon, police off cers said.

A letter found in the room, an evidently written to Gordon b his mother, indicated the youth might have come to Chicag from New York to hide fro police. It read in part:

"You are starting a new li . . . ask a newsboy which pape has the best selection of room for rent . . . Don't at any tim confide in anyone that you name is other than Harol Gordon."

Both names were believe fictitious.

LAUNCH CARRIER TARAWA

PORTSMOUTH, Va., May 1 (AP)—The 27,100-ton aircraf carrier Tarawa, named for th battle which marked the turnin point of the war in the Pacific was launched at Norfolk Nav Yard today.

It's just a variation on a theme, but this two-piece, jewel-studded garment, worn by Acquanetta, has been given the name "Acquarong" by a press agent who wants it distinguished from Dorothy Lamour's sarong.

New Comedy Just Isn't

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Merely Coincidental," Charles Raddock's new comedy which Leslye Karen presented last night at the Wilbur Theater as her first production, provided a little turkey for us in the midst of the most serious wartime meat and poultry shortages.

If it seems a little cruel to toss off an opening in such uncomplimentary fashion, it should not be amiss to remind producers that they have an obligation to the playgoing public and that an amateur production at professional prices involves a breach of contract.

The new play at the Wilbur has two many letters in its title and no plot. Its construction is slovenly, its characters are unconvincing and its dialogue is tediously talky and frankly pointless.

One partner, an aggressive tippler, is always bouncing around the stage telling somebody "I knew you had a book in you." The other partner is a stuffy, solemn gent.

James MacColl, as a precious phoney, turns in the only finished, authoritative performance. Solveig Dahl, as the firm's only quiet wonder-girl, does more for the part than it does for her. Will Geer hams it up as "Lovely" and William Becker, as the brawny Iowan, keeps most of his lines a secret from the audience. Choo Choo Johnson, in her first straight role, does better than expected.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—My son went into the Army over two years ago. He was not married at the time but, on the Pacific Coast, about to go overseas, was married. If anything happened to him, would I be notified as mother, or would it be his wife? A. H., Ashland.

A—The prevailing rule is next-of-kin notified. In this case it would be the wife.

Q—My husband is a veteran and we would like to know if the government made any provisions to borrow money to enter a small business? A. K., Brockton.

A—Apparently you have not been reading newspapers of late. Sending you by mail a copy of the GI Bill of Rights.

Q—Can a man physically handicapped by a dislocated shoulder or knee be put into combat service? M. L. D., Leominster.

A—A man with a dislocated shoulder or knee would probably benefit by a consultation with a physician who is a qualified orthopedist. Whether or not he would ultimately be deemed fit for combat service would depend upon the opinion of the Army doctors who were in a position to diagnose his physical condition.

Q—Does the GI Bill of Rights provide for education in a foreign country? C. C., Boston.

A—No, the GI Bill of Rights provides for education only within the continental limits of the United States.

Q—Must a soldier about to be discharged for insanity sign his discharge papers? M. G. E., Seymour, Ct.

A—Jurisprudence reads that the signature of a person adjudged insane is valueless since the person is held to be mentally incapable of understanding the document to be signed; therefore, military justice declares that a soldier discharged for insanity cannot sign his discharge papers.

Q—When a soldier is discharged from the service, who pays his fare home? Mrs. K. C., Waterbury, Ct.

A—An honorably discharged soldier is given transportation fare or transportation (ticket) request from the point of separation to point of enlistment.

Q—Why are discharged veterans who have allowed their National Service Life Insurance to lapse being urged to reinstate their policies? J. T., Salisbury.

A—Prior to Aug. 31, 1945, a physical examination will not have to be taken by discharged veterans.

Q—If my husband makes out an extra allotment besides the family allowance I am receiving, when do I start getting it? Mrs. J. M. B., Waltham.

A—The allotment authorized by the soldier, in addition to your family allowance, is known as a Class E allotment. It is effective the first of the month designated by the soldier, and payment is due early in the following month.

Q—I'm a regular Army man with two hitch stripes on my sleeve. I've been told that I am not eligible under the GI Bill of Rights because I'm not a selectee. Is that true? C. B. M., Framingham.

A—It is not true. The only eligibility required for GI Bill of Rights benefits is that there must have been service on or after Sept. 16, 1940.

Q—Will you give a list, in the correct order, of the various Army awards for gallantry, distinguished service, etc.? I. B. R., Lynn.

A—In order of precedence, the Army's awards rank as follows: (1) Medal of Honor, (2) Distinguished Service Cross, (3) Distinguished Service Medal, (4) Legion of Merit, (5) Silver Star, (6) Distinguished Flying Cross, (7) Soldier's Medal, (8) Bronze Star Medal, (9) Air Medal, (10) Purple Heart, (11) Good Conduct Medal.

Q—Is mustering-out pay "income" to the discharged soldier and subject to federal income tax? Mrs. L. B., Watertown.

A—No, it is not taxable.

Q—If a WAC is released from service because of pregnancy, is she eligible to re-enlist later on? T. L. B., Newton.

A—If she later meets the eligibility requirements, yes. If, however, her baby lives, she is not eligible because she is the mother of a minor child.

Q—I have a Class A allotment now on which the money is going to my wife. My parents are ill and need money. Can I apply for a Class B allotment and still have the Class A continued? Pvt., B. M. J., Ayer.

A—Yes, a soldier who has a Class A allotment may also make a Class B if circumstances warrant it. Take up the matter with your Personal Affairs Officer, who will advise you in making the second allotment.

English Widow, 78, Never Heard of War

SPALDING, Eng., May 12 (INS)—A blind and deaf widow, Mrs. Francis Elizabeth Carter, 78, is probably the only woman in England who had not heard of the war until V-E Day.

When her daughter and son-in-law told her of the events of the past five and one-half years, Mrs. Carter smiled. When bombs fell in the district, she was told the damage to her bedroom ceiling was the result of an explosion at the gas works.

Stranger Found Dead in House

The body of a man was found today propper into a sitting position beneath a staircase in a Putnam ave., Cambridge, house.

Police said the man apparently died of a fractured skull. Acting Medical Examiner Andrew G. Guthrie withheld decision pending an autopsy.

Chester Smith, a tenant who found the body, said the man looked "familiar," but told police he had no idea how he got inside the house.

A check made out to Walter J. Cusack of Antwerp st., Brighton, was found in the dead man's pocket.

Bobby Burke Gets Lost Dog Back, Thanks Everyone

By BOBBY BURKE

I have my dog Rex back again today and I'm writing to let everyone know how happy I am and to say Thank You.

Yesterday, the Boston American let me tell you my own story of my lost dog and as a result a kind lady who read it telephoned me that a dog of that description was playing in a field near her home on Belton st., Dorchester.

I hurried up there and, sure enough, there was Rex. I'm sure he was lost because he looked very unhappy until I called to him and then he wagged his tail and leaped for joy and came running to me.

I'm so happy that I've forgotten the name of the kind lady who telephoned me, but I want her to know how grateful I am to her.

I want to thank all the kind people who telephoned to me and offered to send me dogs to replace Rex. He may not win any blue ribbons, but no dog ever could replace him with me. I guess they understand how I feel and that I am grateful for their thoughtfulness.

Last of all, to the editor of the Boston American I want to also say:

"Thanks.

Veterans

day was out. Two more groups will become civilians tomorrow. The rest of the men will be released Monday, officers said.

The Saturday-Monday weekend discharges at Devens will total about 200, with 2500 scheduled to be released from Army centers throughout the country.

The first 33 at Ft. Devens answered their last call just before dawn. They donned the new uniforms issued them last night then went to breakfast.

The first group of 33 veterans to be discharged all were processed yesterday at the Ft. Devens separation center. Today at 10 a. m., as they lined up before the finance officer, all they were required to do was to sign their final discharge papers, and collect their pay.

The discharge certificates were made out in triplicate. The men were fingerprinted and the thumbprint of each was placed on the discharge paper.

Some men had already telephoned their families to tell them they would be home on furlough. But the majority had not, intending to arrive home by surprise.

"Wait until my wife and kids hear that this is not just a leave, but the real thing," shouted one happy vet. "Just think, now I am home for good!"

Meanwhile, in Europe the Army's vast re-employment plan to shift fighting men from the Western Front to the Pacific got under way after Gen. Eisenhower's announcemnt that combat troops who served both in North Africa and Europe would not have to fight in the Japanese theater.

Eisenhower said that soldiers in this category who haven't sufficient points to be eligible for discharge would be retained in the European theater for occupation.

Many Face Third Meatless Sunday

With virtually no beef, lamb or pork obtainable, most Greater Boston families faced another meatless Sunday again tomorrow.

For many it was the third consecutive week-end without a roast.

Hopeful shoppers again stormed markets at Faneuil Hall today, but stocks generally were cleaned out. Most suburban markets reported they had received no meat deliveries and expected none.

As substitutes for roasts, cold cuts, frankfurts and tinned meats were reported in fair supply.

Senator Paints Dire Tire Famine Picture

WASHINGTON, May 12 (INS)—Sen. Elmer Thomas (D.) of Oklahoma, said today that Oklahoma refineries have huge supplies of lower octane gasoline they can't sell because of the tire shortage.

At Fort Sill, he said, hundreds of jeeps, trucks and other military vehicles are parked with tires removed, the need so great that the tires were removed and shipped overseas.

Japs Know Sting

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12 (AP)—Jap fighter pilots, who have been stung on more than one occasion by American Superfortresses, have nicknamed the big planes "Bee Ko," or "Mister Bee."

Other enemy pilot nicknames for American planes, as reported by radio Tokyo in a broadcast monitored by the Federal Communications Commission:

P-38: Dried Sardine.

existed everywhere—on the roads, in the fields and villages.

The refugee problems of eastern Germany are incomparably worse than in the west. Every European nationality was represented on the highways in every conceivable type of transport.

Burned down forests were packed with half-melted German vehicles. Guns, machines and supplies littered the countryside. This isn't as chaotic as the France of 1940—this is a thousand times worse!

Hordes of freed slave workers were flooding homeward in every direction. Among them were carriers of every type of disease.

Handsome, efficient Russian female military police stood at all crossroads, trying to control traffic.

Thousands of Caucasian, Siberian and Mongolian soldiers of the Red Army, each loaded down with his own arsenal of automatic weapons, searched for souvenirs and amusement.

Dirt-covered American trucks were speeding supplies up and down the roads—tangible and profuse evidence of lend-leare.

We saw dead, nude bodies lying in ditches side by side with the bloated, decaying carcasses of horses and cows.

Telephone lines were tangled. Discarded uniforms were heaped together in a fantastic farrago.

The frequent crack of rifles, the stutter of machine guns, the screech of jeeps and trucks and the rumbling and rattling of the refugee wagons combined with cheers, songs and complaints heard in a dozen languages to make a weird cacophony — a discordant theme song for liberat almost lawless Europe.

But the Soviet commissars w beginning to organize some ar Long lines of cattle and transp were moving east, and the G mans who for three years l plundered the rich Ukraine n watched their livestock be herded away.

We did see some German wo en, whose curiosity overca their fears, greeting the Russia

The Russians were not inhibi by any policy of non-fraterni tion.

After what we have seen the east we four observers agr that the orgy in Europe will come tomorrow's internatio hangover.

MOTHER LOVE

By HARRY H. SCHLACHT

"Backward, turn backward, O time in your flight,
Make me a child again just for tonight!
Mother, come back from the echoless shore,
Take me again to your heart as of yore;
Kiss from my forehead the furrows of care,
Smooth the few silver threads out of my hair;
Over my slumber your loving watch keep,
Rock me to sleep, mother, rock me to sleep."

—ELIZABETH AKERS ALLEN.

MOTHER'S Day tomorrow.
We bow our heads at the shrine of motherhood.
We kneel at the altar of sacred memories.
We venerate her cherished name.
We place at her feet the perpetual wreath of affection.
We are transported upon the wings of imagination back to the scenes of our childhood.
We recall mother's tender caresses, her loving embraces and her sweet lullabies at twilight.
We hear again her soft voice which once made our infant hearts rejoice.

O WONDROUS word—mother.
It is God's most precious gift to man.
It is the first word we learn to lisp.
It is the language of the heart.
It is the golden cord which binds the earth to heaven.
It is the greatest of all loves.
It will pass through the furnace of disgrace and yet live.
It will endure the scorching contumely with unreserved fidelity.
It will remain imperishable before the storms of life.

THERE can be no greater privilege than to voice tomorrow paeans of thanksgiving to the Almighty Who so planned the universe as to give mothers to men.
She is the keystone to the home.
She is the guarding star of man.
She is the fountain of inspiration that thrills the hearts of men.
She is the true heroine of the war.
She has set the standard of faith and victory for us all.
She is the greatest soldier of them all.

HER love is immortal and eternal.
She walks unafraid into the valley of the shadow and emerges with new life.
She showers her tenderest devotion on that bud of life.
Her spirit is the inspiration of youth.
From cradle to grave she keeps aloft the flame of filial affection upon the altar of home.
So long as the torch of democracy is held high by the mothers of the Republic—so long will its spirit kindle in our hearts.

EMBRACE her.
Take her to your heart.
Blessed are the children that can still have the benediction of her fading eyes and the caress of her trembling lips.
For many of us she is a hallowed memory.
Her hands touch us only in our dreams.
There has never been a heroic act comparable to the life's work of the humblest mother.
To the soldier who falls on the battlefield, we give bronze and tablet.
But to the mother it is a battle without the glory.
Her ears do not catch the notes of martial music, but only the cries of children made fatherless in war.
SHE WEARS NO MEDALS OF A NATION!
Her badge is the furrowed lines upon her face.
WHEN SHE REACHES JOURNEY'S END, THERE IS NO ARLINGTON FOR HER.
NO BUGLE SOUNDS TAPS OVER HER—ONLY THE PURLING WATERS OF THE PLACID STREAMS, THE BIRDS IN THE AIR AND THE WINDS OF HEAVEN CHANT.

REMEMBER mothers!
Never again shall the forces of tyranny sacrifice your handiwork upon the battlefield.
Mothers of every race and clime shall see their children born in freedom, reared in peace, matured in homes which shall be free.
For out of this holocaust shall come order: out of this hatred—love.
America, historic mother of the world's oppressed, shall lead the way, and mother's love shall find its full expression in the world to come.
THAT IS WHAT EVERY MOTHER SEEKS. THIS IS WHAT THE WORLD SHALL HAVE.

Although my years be not
Yet two and twenty,
I'm sick of life
As any man can be.
O, love, with work to do
Elsewhere and plenty
Why must you make
Your bonfires out of me?

ABOVE written 290 B.C., over 2000 years ago, reveals what an ancient thing the torch song is. Also, it shows how long heartless women have been kicking around the hearts of trusting men . . . Now I am going to try to win some stogies from Col. Matt Winn on a question of turf history. The colonel has been active around race tracks for 70 years. That shows you when I bet stogies I don't pick any pushovers. In his autobiography, "Down the Stretch," Matt says in the days of George "Pittsburgh Phil" Smith "printed form charts were unknown." I will wager a box of stogies that when Pittsburgh Phil was the sensation of the betting rings around New York he could have bought a printed form chart from a newsboy at the entrance of any track.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Do you believe in the idea that the "hotel or restaurant guest is always right?" A—Certainly not. I believe when a guest is wrong he should be politely but firmly informed of the fact by a soft-spoken, patient, diplomatic manager or assistant manager. However, if the soft answer fails to turn away the wrath of an insolent, arrogant, insulting guest, I believe the manager should get a little tough with him. Q—Can you name six sons who are better at the same sport than their famous fathers were? A—If I had time I think I could. But offhand can only think of two—Jake Schaefer, Jr., and Fred "Dixie" Walker. Jake, Jr. is a better balk-line billiardist than Jake, Sr. and Fred Walker is a little better ballplayer than his papa was.

PLEASE NOTE: An expert on business down South America way says United States business men planning to build up trade there should not only learn Spanish and Portuguese but also how to do the tango and samba. Sounds as if a business trip down to Rio de Janeiro or Buenos Aires might have its interesting aspects. I may take a trip down there to study the newspaper situation. I know a little Spanish and can do the tango and samba. All I need now is to have Carmen Miranda give me a few lessons in Portuguese. Of course, while I am taking my language lessons, Carmen can help me brush up on my tango and samba.

PASSING BY: Joan McCracken. Musical comedy cutie from Philadelphia. A terrific hit in "Oklahoma!" and likewise in "Bloomer Girl." The Quaker City produces an unusual number of musical comedy stars. To name a few other examples: Vivienne Segal, Elizabeth Murray and Jeanette MacDonald . . . Gene Fowler. Newspaper man, novelist, wit and ex-bon vivant. Born on March 8. (A Pisces.) Is said Pisceans make good novelists and accountants. Mr. Fowler is a successful novelist, but I can hardly imagine him being happy as a certified public accountant. The stargazers say Pisces writers work best near large bodies of water. Gene wrote his best novels on Fire Island, which is entirely surrounded by the Atlantic ocean.

WOMEN, ETC.: Retailers of clothes for women have always had considerable difficulty in originating a diplomatic description of women above the average in size. First, the hefty ladies were referred to as "stylish stouts." The pleasingly plump girls did not like the "stout" part of that description. Then somebody originated the phrase "for women who are not slender." The generously proportioned ladies found that phrase depressing. Now the description "the larger women" is being used. That is inclined to make the sensitive stout shopper shudder. The woman's wear industry should offer a prize for a pleasing description of the full figured female. How about "the Fair Lillian Figure," named after the handsome and husky Lillian Russell? Or the Irwin Figure," named after May Irwin, who was a big girl, too?

THEIR TURN NOW: Twice we have sent millions of men to join in the war on the barbarians of Europe. Now we will see how many millions of men Europe sends to war on the barbarians of Japan. For instance, how many of those 50 million Frenchmen are going to take part in the battle with the barbaric Nipponese?

HOLLYWOOD, May 12—Joan Fontaine told me Sam Goldwyn has put in a bid to buy her contract from David Selznick. Joan makes no bones about wanting to go with Sam because he is such a meticulous producer and besides he has two fine stories for her. A gal would not be human if she did not want "Earth and High Heaven" and Sam's latest buy, "The Bishop's Wife."

HAVE HEARD some very good news. Una Merkel will be here in June or July for "Home Is The Sailor." A role has been especially written in for Una, who was to have done a play on Broadway in the fall. Hollywood will be very glad to see her. She hasn't been here for three or four years and I hope this opens a whole new career for her. She is just now getting back on her feet after the tragic death of her mother.

Boston After Dark

THE GROWING LIST of prospective candidates for mayor in the next election has another addition . . . Governor's Councillor John Sawtelle, the Democrat whose opposition cost Fire Commissioner Reilly his appointment as head of the Metropolitan District Commission, is the latest aspirant . . . Governor Tobin and his small son, Maurice, Jr., were greeted by President Truman at the White House . . . Young Maurice then waited in the ante-room, proudly holding an autographed visitor's card, while his father and the President talked out a 20-minutes session . . . With the Tobins was a Boston newspaper man.

★ ★ ★

WHILE THE Massachusetts Governor was visiting, the President and the White House staff were awaiting the President's mother . . . She was speeding toward the Capital in the four-engined airplane assigned to the President . . . The old lady was making her first trip by air . . . That the President reserves a corner of his heart for sentiment is indicated clearly by the circumstances of his mother's visit . . . She will be with her famous son—on her first visit since he achieved the highest place in the land—for Mother's Day . . . the day which has been set aside by presidential proclamation as one of prayer and thanksgiving for America's victory over the Nazis.

GIVEN A break in the weather, Narragansett was expecting the biggest opening day in the history of New England racing . . . Race fans will have to get acquainted with a half-dozen new jockeys, and the form charts will be carrying some unfamiliar backgrounds of tracks in Mexico and Cuba . . . It is safe to predict that attendance and mutuel handles will be terrific . . . Yet it is not too certain that records set last year will go by the boards . . . For more than a month now, the nightclubs and theaters have shown a falling off in receipts from the "boom days" of 1943-44 . . . A theory that war workers are curtailing expenditures in anticipation of the war's end, and "cutbacks" in production with an inevitable loss of employment, is gaining more supporters.

A BOSTON BOXING promoter is trying to get Frank Sinatra's father, who fought as a featherweight under the name of Matty O'Brien, to try a comeback with his son in the old man's corner . . . The Sinatra fans would jam the hall, possibly . . . But after The Verce's two cancellations of Boston singing dates, it would be necessary to have him broadcast his presence an hour before the show from the ringside . . . Carl Brisson, the Singing Dane now playing at the Statler's Terrace Room, used to be a boxer, by the way . . . At one time he was recognized as light heavyweight champion of Scandinavia.

CARL'S FOOTWORK, a feature of his informal style of singing songs while jumping from floor to chair to bandstand tugging a few fathoms of microphone-cord, is something to watch . . . It must be his ring training that keeps him from tripping himself on the long cord of wire.

THIS NEW-TO-BOSTON organist at the Myles Standish, Paul Webber, has more virtuosity on the instrument than any of his rivals, in this department's opinion . . . Paul is a native of Winter Hill, Somerville . . . He learned his instrument while acting as salesman for a firm of organ manufacturers . . . Paul plays an electric organ and a celesta at the same time, and the result is beautiful.

Latest Beach Fashions

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

WHEN the summer sun becomes the celestial spotlight . . . they'll be seeing you. Never in the history of feminine fashions has the great expose been so emphasized as this summer. You'll out-Eve Eve in the art of stripping . . . and you'll get away with it at the beach in your swim and playsuits . . . your cabana outfits.

You'll be accentuating the minimum . . . and you don't have to be super-sleuth X-9 in figuring out that playclothes are plotting to strip you to the bare necessities. Your midriff will be unmasked . . . you'll unstrap your shoulders . . . bare your legs, arms and back in a dozen-and-one disarmingly pretty . . . and we say, charming ways . . . providing, of course you've got the silhouette to feature such bi-reed nudity.

DESIGN PLUS COLOR

Bare, bright and brief as possible . . . those are three catch words of summer clothes, what little there is of them . . . to let you soak up the sun . . . and look lithe and lovely in the doing . . . all of which will take the summer out of summer and let you wrestle with King Sol as close to nature as convention allows.

It isn't government regulations which has brought swooning garb to the maximum . . . but the creative design whose artistry has reached that point which says the feminine figure at its choice and charming, is pretty much stripped and strapped.

Yet the little that you'll wear . . . will make you a bright splash on the surf or sand . . . for there's design and color to the togs . . . as stimulating to wear as the brisk, alert American girl who wears them.

At the outset . . . your inhibitions will creep up on you . . . and you'll be shocked at the very thought of baring so much of you to so many . . . but as Poe so subtly put it . . . "at last to embrace" . . . since the bare fashions are as cool as a mint julep . . . and on a sultry, hot day that's the way you'll want to be.

SOUTHERN BELLE GARB

We've pictured some mighty cute little beach numbers . . . especially the Southern Belle influenced garb . . . with the dropped shoulder ruffles of interesting stripes. Naturally only the slimmest of slim girls will be able to get away with the brief bra featured.

The sun worshippers will adore this summertime American fashion . . . yet even if you can only look and admire . . . until you get the figure down to the right size . . . you'll say this summer's collection will be the prettiest Vitamin D togs that ever went down to the sea . . . or stayed snugly ashore.

If you want a pound-shelving diet to make you a little modern Eve, we'll supply it if you write us care of the Beauty Dept., Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FLESH AND FORM fashion is rampant in elasticised cotton (at right) . . . which makes the least you can wear for the most sun . . . a smoothly designed bra and skirt, if it can be so called, of Everfast's waffle pique in butterfly and flower motif. Take a second look at the thong sandal.

SOUTHERN BELLE influence is reflected in this dressy swim suit, too too divine for the sweet, simple and girlish figure . . . one of the prettiest we've seen. Ruffles on the skirt take on a bustle flare at the back . . . and the off-the-shoulder ruffled-top bra gives a picture-portrait effect. It's fashioned of Everfast's colorfast pique . . . summer's smartest cotton.

TRUE TO THE barer - the - better keynote of beach togs are these bare midriff fashions which sun worshipers adore and wear for a challenge to the sun's rays . . . in waffle pique, printed in horseshoe pattern . . . the same cotton is ruffled for the dress and elasticized for the swim suit.

SALT WATER black in a brief and boyish swim suit of Gibson Girl spun rayon stripes . . . with a bra of color fast black Erin cloth bound to match . . . are a neat twosome of "The Look" for summer . . . and you can really go off the deep end over these water babies.

Vegetable Variety

By MARTHA LEE

THE MARKETS are bulging with a wide variety of colorful vegetables and very soon wartime gardens will begin to produce even more. There is no excuse for monotony when serving vegetables, especially when there is such a wide selection.

A smooth, creamy white sauce may be the basis for many pleasing vegetable combinations. Add chopped pimiento, egg, parsley, dill pickle, chives, green onions, a dash of curry, cheese, or any other seasoning your imagination may take a fancy to. Just be sure the seasoning seems to be one that would blend naturally with the flavor of the vegetable.

ASPARAGUS WITH PIMIENTO CREAM SAUCE

2 bunches of asparagus (2 lbs.)
2 tbsp. butter or meat drippings
¼ tbsp flour ⅛ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. salt 2 cups milk
¼ cup chopped pimiento
2 tbsp. minced parsley

Break off tough ends of asparagus and wash with soft brush. Cook in boiling salted water until tender, about 20 to 25 minutes. Drain. Meanwhile, melt butter in saucepan, stir in flour and seasonings and blend. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly and cook until smooth and thickened. Add pimiento and minced parsley. Serve asparagus bundles on hot toast and top with pimiento sauce. Makes 6 servings.

STUFFED BAKED BEETS

6 medium-sized beets
Salt, pepper and celery salt
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
1½ cups grated American cheese Paprika

Boil beets until tender; peel and scoop shallow cavity from top of each; sprinkle cavity with seasonings. Cut slice from bottom so beets will stand level; place in greased baking pan. Fill each cavity with mixture of crumbs and ½ the cheese, sprinkle generously with remaining cheese and paprika, and bake in moderately hot oven (375 deg F.) about 20 minutes, or until cheese is melted and lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

SCALLIONS A LA KING

2 bunches scallions
¼ cup mushrooms
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 cup medium white sauce
1 pimiento, shredded
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
½ tsp. salt
Dash of celery salt
Dash of pepper

Cut roots and tip ends from scallions and wash well. Cook in boiling salted water until tender, about 15 minutes; then drain. Wash and peel mushrooms, cut in halves and saute in butter 5 minutes, add to white sauce and stir in remaining ingredients. Pour over scallions and serve on toast points if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Teen-Agers Get Advice

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

"TEEN-AGERS are notoriously fussy about anything handed out to them as behavior-suggestions. So Dr. Anna O. Stephans of Pennsylvania State College is to be congratulated for handling the subject sensibly and not without a dash of humor.

She tells girls if they're going on a double date to "be sure the other girl is in sympathy with your point of view." In other words, if a girl knows where to draw the line in petting, it's not well to share a double date with a wild bird who doesn't know where to stop.

Talk for a whole evening, if you hardly know the boy, is a dull program, nor can you expect the boy to have all the ideas. When a girl feels a situation is getting out of hand, she should prevent it before it occurs. After seeeing a sexy movie, for instance, it's better to go eat with the crowd rather than go for a ride by yourself.

Any girl with her wits about her has the upper hand of a situation. Don't lead your date on and then wonder what's the matter with him. And if you must put him in his place, do it kindly. Take the blame on yourself. Perhaps you don't realize the amount of glamour you possess; indeed, you may be more devastating than you think. And if you do exert such a spell, you can afford to be gracious.

Don't forget to give the boy a second chance if you like him. Maybe you could even invite him to something you'd planned, just to show you don't hold a grudge. Of course, if it happens the second time, you'll have to decide if it's worth the trouble.

It's always a good idea to invite a date, if you happen to like him and think he's worth cultivating, to your home. Good for him to know a girl has a background of home and family.

Lynn JVA Busy

Though victory has been proclaimed in Europe, there remains the destruction of Japan, so Junior Victory Army members of the auxiliary of the William P. Connery Post, AL, Lynn, are continuing their home front missions.

Mrs. Evelyn Belisle, secretary of the corps, reports the members recently collected 75 small magazines, 80 comic books, 50 new short story books, eight full length novels, games, including sets of checkers and checker boards and several new packs of playing cards.

These were placed in three boxes and sent to Cushing Hospital, Framingham; the Chelsea Hospital and the Lynn Flying School. Other boxes will be prepared soon and are expected to include candy, cookies and other refreshments.

Plans for a dance and show are under way with proceeds to be used for the purchase of playing cards, Mrs. Belisle reports.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 238, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Sunday's Advertiser.

The Man Out of Fiction: Ole Tess Gets Punctured

By AUSTEN LAKE

LATEST LIST OF WOUNDED from the European theater includes Capt. Adrien Tessier of 91 Laurel ave., Providence. I knew that a month ago, but couldn't write it.

Austen Lake

Ole Tess, the former Hathaway cake salesman, is one of my favorite characters and a member of that robust fellowship of Combat Command B, Fourth Armored.

He is a whimsical cuss with a broad Gallic-American puss and a habitual grin that was no grin at all. In that lethal brotherhood of CCB he was a kind of savage jokesmith who made mass mayhem a macabre jest.

I was with him a short while before he got a shrapnel splinter through his shoulder (He'll be okay, Virginia!). We were standing with his tanks in a field outside a burning town above Jena, and that town was really "inflamed."

A party of 10 unescorted Kraut soldiers had just emerged from a hideout and were looking for a painless path to surrender as they walked up a street with their hands locked behind their heads. Ole Tess paused in his conversation and reached leisurely for his 45, cracking a couple of shots across their path—just attention getters! For there was something of the old wild West in Tess—a flamboyant, jocular grimness of the cowboy gun fanner.

He Was a Stern Schoolmaster

THE STARTLED HEINIES TURNED and Tess beckoned casually his way and waved 'em, palms down, much as a baseball umpire signals the runner safe, to prone positions on the grass. All but one of the Jerries flopped bellywise, glad to find sanctuary. But one, a hawknosed, big framed unteroffizier glared arrogantly. He decided his rank entitled him to stand up.

Tess just strolled over and put a wrestler's headlock on the man, bringing him down to his knees and pinning him with a hammerlock. The beatific smile never left his florid kisser. And when he had his Nazi comfortably berthed with his chin buried in the sod Tess turned and said: "That's the first lesson in his re-education."

I first met Tessier six miles west of Coblenz. At the moment he and his company of tanks were occupying a farm hamlet named Kettig, a scant two kilometers from the large town of Weissenthurm and overlooking a road that paralleled the Rhine. It was a silent sylvan scene in the morning mists, like something painted on satin. The tank crews were busy with their housework, cleaning gun-bores, stacking ammo and adjusting gear. A line of infantry outposts lay in a water ditch and searched the distance through glasses.

Behind us German villagers moused meekly in their dooryards or peered from windows like mice from knotholes. I could see white surrender flags fluttering from the rooftops of Weissenthurm, where townsmen had hung out submissive bed sheets. But there were German combat units in that town.

Suddenly one of the infantry observers shouted: "German supply column coming out" and Tessier levelled his glasses. "Holy Cow," he said in the voice of a man who had just fallen heir to a rich uncle's fortune, "clear those guns for action." He yelled needlessly for the tank crews were already swivelling their gun nozzles and estimating the range. One didn't need any glasses to see the procession of horse drawn wagons, troop-carriers, half tracks, laden trucks and a miscellany of smaller carts at 1200 meters.

Even the figures of the Nazi soldiers were in clear outline. What sort of military ignorance prompted this cavalcade to roll leisurely under the snouts of our gun, like so many clay pigeons, is for eternity to answer. The dead cannot speak!

Development of a Pie Salesman

"HOLD IT," TESS SHOUTED, "Let 'em spread out." As I watched the column, oblivious of the perdition which lay a short hog-shout to their right, mooched slowly along till it stretched a quarter-mile from town. Through binoculars I could see a German staff car, with its officers bent over a map.

"Work 'em over from the head of the column with H-Es," shouted Tessier, with his arm aloft, "NOW—let 'em have it." And the gunners did! I have never seen nor heard anything so stunning to the senses. The din of our 75 mms and 50-calibers numbed my eardrums. To me, so recently come from the placid securities of civilian America, it didn't seem actual that these were men, animals and machinery disintegrating before my eyes at that short distance.

Shells burst along the line in incandescent flashes from which dark blobs sailed lazily from gusts of smoke that were like a lady's powder puff. Tracer bullets like orange balls whizzed along the line. The head of the column was hidden behind a milky veil. Completely stalled, the following vehicles could neither move forward or retreat.

Horses broke from their traces and galloped wildly across fields, some dragging overturned wagons. Soldiers scuttled for any haphazard cover. Trucks tumbled over an embankment as hysterical drivers tried to wheel out of line. Flame licked rosily, funnelling smoke toward gray skies.

It was all over inside of five minutes, though it seemed a small lifetime and when Tessier waved his arms like a trainman flagging an engineer and shouted, "Cease fire," the ensuing silence seemed an aching void.

It was only one in the unending sequence of battle-incidents in Ole Tess' life, wherein he had crammed enough hair-raising adventure to stock a paper-book library. Yet three years ago he had taken orders for cakes and pastry and given grocer's salestalks on the latest line of meringue pies and jam tarts. He'll be home pretty soon, Ole Tess will! His C-O, Lt. Col. Harold Cohen told me so just before I left Germany. Tess was Cohen's prize disciple in the art of military homicide.

Night Editor Wins First As 20,000 Cheer at R. I.

By BILL SMITH

NARRAGANSETT PARK, May 12—Eager for the start of the 1945 New England racing season, thousands of avid turf fans flocked here in a never ending stream and this spacious oval was host to more than 20,000 lovers of thoroughbred racing.

The weather was made to order—bright and warm—but the track, after the rains of the past two days, was rated only "good."

The gates were thrown open at noon. At that time there were hundreds of cars in the parking spaces and a small army of turf devotees were waiting to drop their 50-cent pieces into the slots for grandstand admission or to place their dollars on the line for reserved or clubhouse seats.

Everything was spic and span, a tribute to the energy and ingenuity of the Narragansett management, which had only three days to prepare for this belated opening of the N. E. racing campaign.

Secretary Ty Shea had arranged a nine-race program and the smallest field was one of six horses in the fourth event.

Predictions on the handle ranged all the way from $750,000 to $1,000,000.

First horse to cross a finish line on an American track since Jan. 2 was the 11-year-old Night Editor, in the opening race.

A first race handle of $72,175 and a daily double handle of $58,132 indicated a record-breaking season had begun.

A nolaccount platter last year, Night Editor, a stake performer in his younger days, looked like Man O' War competing against dray horses as he galloped to a four length victory to pay $12.20 and start King Wilson off on another season as the Green Sports Special's ace handicapper with a winner.

Breaking Fast, Night Editor never was worse than fourth, caught the pace-setting and favorite Try Flying at the top of the home stretch and walzed off under Jockey J. Martin, to win going away. Aldridge, with a last minute rush, nipped Try for second spot and paid $18.40.

The second, marred by a spill when Jockey G. Crowell was thrown off Ticco, went to Cake Gravy, a 5-1 shot ridden by veteran George Seabo.

The daily double combination of Night Editor and Cake Gravy (92) paid sugar that sweetened the pockets of the lucky ticket holders to the extent of $147.60.

Yankee Notions, favorite in the second race, looked like a winner coming into the stretch but tired over the final furlong and was passed by both Cake Gravy and Davitt, the latter being strongest of all at the end. The winner paid $12.20, exactly the same amount returned by Night Editor. The handle hopped to $98,011.

Ex-Heavy Boxer Con O'Kelly Ordained Priest

HULL, England, May 12 (AP)—Con O'Kelly, one of Great Britain's leading heavyweights a decade ago, has been ordained a Roman Catholic priest and will celebrate his first solemn mass tomorrow.

The 36-year-old undefeated champion of Northern England had 64 professional bouts and was never knocked out. He visited the United States in 1931 and drew with King Levinsky at Chicago that fall.

He was ordained Thursday after seven years of study.

Racing's Biggest Season Opens at Narragansett

By JACK CONWAY

THERE WAS greater enthusiasm for horse racing than ever today as the sport of kings returned to New England at Narragansett Park, and at Sportsman's Park in Chicago. The long racing layoff has made the public more eager than ever to see the thoroughbreds in action.

I expect racing to have its biggest season in New England despite the fact there will be fewer days of racing due to the ban which was lifted following V-E day. There will still be 55 days of racing at Narragansett Park, and 54 days of racing at Suffolk Downs and at Rockingham Park. Increased attendance and mutuel handle will cause the totals to soar past the 1944 figures.

Hap Fenelon

With the war in Europe won, there will not be as much tenseness as when the country was fighting a two-front war. There will also be thousands of returning service men from the European theater of war. Some of these men will not be sent to the Far East, while others will be in this country for only a limited period of time before moving against the Japs. Many of the service men of both groups will find time to attend the races.

Later there will be more gas — A card holders, and this will make it easier for people to get to the tracks. There will not be any special trains or special bus services, but the regular services will operate and these will help get people near the tracks.

You will not find government and state officials shooting at racing as some of them have done in the past. Racing won new standing by the fine manner in which the leaders conducted themselves during the shutdown. The public did not fully realize how much racing had become a part of their lives until they no longer could go to a track in this country.

APART FROM the human desire to get as many winners as possible there are thousands of people who gain pleasure out of the social life at the track. There is no place one can go where he can meet more people than at a race track. Unlike a ball park or a football stadium one can roam all over a race track, and in this way restless souls like this writer receive an opportunity to meet and talk with people in all the different walks of life.

I have always advised newspaper columnists and reporters to go to a race track if they wished to get something interesting about which to write. There are thousands of news stories at the track every year, and many of them do not even pertain to sports. This is because most of the people who make the news like to take in the races.

Judge James E. Dooley and his associates at Narragansett Park can sit back and relax once the bugle sounds for the horses to leave the paddock for the first race. Their fine staff of racing officials, headed by Stewards John Turner and Norman Charlton and State Steward Hap Fenelon, and Racing Secretary Ty Shea will take care of the day's sport from there on. The Judge did much to get New England racing off to a flying start when he got 800 horses to his track before V-E day. As a result, Narragansett Park was prepared to go once the green light was flashed.

Suffolk Downs and Rockingham Park will later benefit from the large number of horses that have moved into Narragansett Park. By the latter part of next week there will be 1000 horses at the Rhode Island track.

FOR THE most probable winners I refer you to the handicaps and selections of Dave Wilson, New England handicapping king for the past 10 years; Dave Komie, runner-up to Wilson last year; Bill McAuley and Bill Smith who has handicapped under the name of "Clocker." This array of experts has been at Narragansett for some time and they have secured the latest information on the horses who will run today.

It will be grand to get out into the open air and watch great thoroughbreds in action again.

It was pleasing to learn that racing will continue to go all out for war charities. The men who make racing tick are eager to do everything possible in the great fight against Japan. This means that every racing meet will also have its war charity program. This makes one like racing better.

Tech Defends NE Track Title

Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the host team, made a bid for retention of the New England intercollegiate track and field championships against 14 other colleges at Briggs Field today.

Also given a chance for the team prize in the 58th annual meeting was Tufts, which lost the crown by a half point last year.

Tiger Pitchers Test Lloyd Christopher

By HUCK FINNEGAN

DETROIT, May 12—Lloyd Christopher will face the best pitching in the league as the Red Sox tangle with the Tigers on the morrow, and it will be interesting to see if the rookie center fielder can continue the fine hitting that marked his debut in the final game at Cleveland. Score: Red Sox 8, Indians 4.

To get another right-handed batter in the lineup against southpaw Al Smith, Joe Cronin pulled Red McBride from center field and placed him on first base. That left room in center for Christopher, a boy Cronin has been eyeing fondly all spring.

BULLETIN

DETROIT, May 12—Rain today washed out the game scheduled between the Red Sox and Tigers here. The clubs play a twin bill tomorrow.

The elongated Californian made three hits in four trips, batted in two runs, and scored three. He actually was the difference between victory and defeat.

Christopher always could play ball—when physically fit. But a succession of knee injuries kept him from challenging Joe DiMaggio for the center field berth on the Yankees, and a shoulder injury kept him from breaking into the Red Sox lineup sooner this spring.

"I jammed it sliding back to first base last year," said the 25-year-old brother of the A's Russ. Christy played for Seattle last year after the Yanks gave up on him.

He had hurt his knee with Kansas City in '41, again with Newark in '42 and a third time with K. C. in '43. The knee is holding up well but the shoulder has been holding him back.

He reported late at Pleasantville, and the winds blew so strong there he was afraid to let out. He couldn't help the club that way. So finally on a warm off day in Boston last week, Cronin ordered him to take off the wraps. He did, and surprised himself with his throwing.

Of course there is always danger of the hurt kicking up again but while he can throw the Sox have a fine wartime centerfielder in the affable youngster.

He was always a pretty good hitter, though he's no home run merchant, and he can shag flies with anybody in the business.

He proved that in the spring training. He lopes after the ball in approved DiMaggio fashion, and is as graceful catching a ball as either Joe or Dom.

155 Entries for June 9 Derby

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Ky., May 12 (INS)—John Marsch's unbeaten Free For All today headed the largest number of entries in 16 years to be nominated for the 71st running of the Kentucky Derby. Matching the growing enthusiasm of racing fans over the lifting of the government's ban on racing, stable owners and trainers entered a total of 155 eligibles for the delayed 1945 turf classic, the Churchill Downs management announced.

The Derby, which probably will be run June 2 or 9, has had only one entry list greater than this year's. That was in 1929.

That year, when Clyde Van Dusen was the winner, there were 159 nominations. Since then, 150 in 1930 and a like number in 1942 had been tops. Many of the entries already are at the Downs and are far advanced in training.

Only Water M. Jeffords' undefeated Pavot was missing from the list of those highly regarded as 3-year-old prospects.

Marsch also named Art Roi, which has gained many supporters in his early pointing, and it was considered likely that, unless mishap intervenes, this entry will go postward the favorite.

The Helis Stock Farm led in the number of nominations with seven. Among these are Pericles, for which William Helis paid $66,000 as a yearling. His other six entries were Pindus, Adonis, Greek Warrior, Rick's Raft, Spartan Noble and Spartacus.

BULLETIN

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 12 (AP)—Col. Matt Winn today announced that the Kentucky Derby would be held here Saturday, June 9.

Preakness June 16, Belmont Stakes June 23

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—With Col. Matt Win picking June 9 as the date for the 71st running of the Kentucky Derby, the big three of the turf will be decided in this order:

Kentucky Derby—June 9 at Louisville.

Preakness—June 16 at Baltimore.

Belmont Stakes—June 23 at New York.

ODT Keeps Derby In 'Streetcar' Class

WASHINGTON, May 12 (INS)—The Office of Defense Transportation announced today that the Kentucky Derby will be held again this year as a "streetcar derby."

The ODT said that no derby tickets will be sold to persons outside the Louisville area.

ODT Director J. Monroe Johnson explained that the transportation limitations for the Derby is in line with ODT policy of not modifying restrictions on transportation to races despite the lifting of the horse racing ban.

TODAY'S ROLL OF HONOR

"... Greatness appears in every hour; it rises from the gloom on wings resplendent with a bitter loss. Nothing is now of pettiness or dross, but steadfast, silent payment, Freedom's price, a resolution overmastering doom, and warrior's crown of infinite sacrifice." —(Gorell.)

The War Department today announced, through the Office of War Information, the names of 136 casualties of the European and Pacific regions residing in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Maine.

The list includes FOUR DEAD, 129 WOUNDED IN ACTION and THREE MISSING IN ACTION.

Next of kin in all cases have been kept informed directly by the War Department of any change in status. In case of divergence between this list and information sent to next of kin, the last War Department telegram or letter to next of kin is the final authority on the status of a soldier.

The Navy Department, also through OWI, announced 23 casualties of the Navy and Marine Corps residing in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Maine.
